Byron,

We are happy to discuss the methodology further if need be. Please keep us informed as to how we can help you.

In the meantime, am I right to assume from your email below that the December 28th call is canceled as well? Or shall we wait until closer to that date to decide?

Elise

Hi Rick and Elise –

I am cancelling the teleconference for today.

As you remember, our initial thinking was that an analysis of RADARS monthly Nucynta PCC data would be useful as a tool to assess misuse and abuse early in the period after launch. However, methodologically, this has turned out to be more difficult than initially envisioned. After a number of discussions both internally and with RADARS, we are not comfortable that the analysis approach we have come up with will accomplish our aims, provide added value, and not produce misleading signals.

So, we will wait (and look forward to!) for the first full quarterly RADARS report in January.

Thank for your patience.

...Byron
